

Alexander Bialk counsels insurers in complex first-party property coverage disputes, including catastrophe-related property claims, builder's risk claims, and unfair claim practices suits. His practice is grounded in the interpretation and analysis of first-party property liability and completed operations insurance policies, work that often requires untangling competing coverage positions under pressure.

Prior to joining BatesCarey, Alex represented domestic insurers and international markets, giving him a broad perspective on how coverage issues play out across different jurisdictions and insurance frameworks.

Alex earned his J.D., cum laude, from Valparaiso University Law School in 2016 and received his B.A., cum laude, from University of Wisconsin-Stout in 2011. While in law school, Alex served as a law clerk for the Northern District of Indiana, participated in the Moot Court Society and Honors Program, and served as a Law School Ambassador and Volunteer Income Tax Assistant for the IRS.
