

Colleen P. Sorensen is a commercial litigator who has devoted the past fifteen years of her practice to insurance coverage and appeals. She represents insurance companies in coverage litigation in federal and state courts at both the trial and appellate court levels. Colleen has significant experience litigating long-tail asbestos and environmental claims. Over the last several years, she has also litigated multiple matters involving coverage for claims against bankrupt insureds and life science risks, including hip implants, prescription opioids, NMDA contamination and IVC Filters. Colleen also works on a wide range of appellate matters.

In addition to litigating coverage disputes and prosecuting appeals, Colleen regularly advises companies regarding coverage matters outside the litigation context. She has authored a broad range of coverage opinions, analyzing coverage for claims under commercial general liability (occurrence-based and claims-made), professional liability, product liability, pollution legal liability, public entity liability, and Bermuda forms. She also advises clients regarding time-limited demands for policy limits and bad faith claims.
